Monthly comment

In June, global equity markets remained robust, even in the face of persistent inflation and fluctuating government bond yields in the US, as well as political instability in Europe. The positive performance of the overall equity market was predominantly due to the success of a handful of large-cap tech companies. In contrast, the listed private equity sector as well as the Partners Group Listed Investments SICAV - Listed Private Equity Fund had difficulties and experienced a slight negative return during the month. Alternative asset managers saw a decline of around 1%, while private equity vehicles fared the best among sectors. Limited information was available, as the reporting season for the first half will begin next month.

3i Group, a UK based investment company, stood out as the top performer in June. The company delivered a portfolio update, highlighting the sustained strong growth of its primary holding, Action. The non-food discount retailer recorded a 9% increase in like-for-like revenues in the first half and expanded its footprint with the opening of 107 new stores. That sales growth was achieved despite lowering prices as management intends to pass on price reductions to consumers, which will further boost the company's competitiveness.

CVC, an alternative asset manager, was among the underperformers. Despite a strong IPO and positive fundamental developments, the stock saw a drop in June, even as several banks initiated coverage with a buy rating. Despite this decline, the stock has increased by 23% since its initial public offering. In June, the company reported heightened transaction activity, including the acquisitions of M Group, an infrastructure maintenance service provider generating over GBP 2 billion in revenues, Pet Food, a pet food manufacturer with annual sales of over 700,000 tons of pet food, and a partial exit from GEMS, a private education provider with more than 140,000 students.
